

Glendale Star Questionnaire - 2004

QUESTIONS:

(1) Do you feel the U.S. is right to go after the terrorists in Afghanistan and Iraq? Do you believe that going to war in Iraq was important to the security of American citizens and is making the world a safer place from terrorists?

Bush should've immediately asked Congress to use their Constitutional powers of Marque and Reprisal to put multi-million dollar bounties on the heads of those responsible. Instead, he sent in a paltry number of troops months after September, 11th to track them down. Years later we're still there, having propped up a new puppet government in Kabul.

Worse, Bush used the deaths of thousands of Americans, who died as an intelligence failure of his executive branch, to invade a nation that didn't threaten us, and he repeatedly lied to the American public to get them to go along with sending their children into harms way. Worse he's taunted our new enemies from behind a phalanx of Secret Service agents. Now for every "terrorist" killed in Iraq, at least four immediately arise from the rubble to take their place after burying their loved ones.

(2) Would you favor increasing taxes if it meant that a program could be implemented ensuring that no American citizen was without health care benefits?

Eliminate ALL taxes. Adults are presumed capable of procuring their own health care in a free society. Government fascist interference in the medical free market is responsible for the disastrous situation of our health care system.

(3) Do you think illegal immigration is a big problem? If so, what would be your solution. Do you support an amnesty for illegal immigrants already here?

Immigration is only a problem because the government attempts to restrict it. The free market cannot be restricted. If consumers want something bad enough they'll break the law to get it. Government officials are always willing to be corrupted. Open borders is the only solution to keeping aliens from trespassing though private property. Ending all welfare ensures that people immigrate here to find work.

(4) On what issue would you say your view point differs most from the incumbent?

Liberty. My philosophical core is that individuals must interact only in a mutually consensual manner with other individuals, and never initiate force or fraud against another individual. Mr. Franks constantly votes and argues for more government control and uncontrolled spending of stolen taxes, including the most heinous tyranny of all: unprovoked war.

(5) Speak on any other issue that you feel strongly about.
